

A Kiss for Cinderella

This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1921 edition. Excerpt: ...sinking that comes to her at times). You think she'll come, don't you? Policeman. Cinderella, your hands burning--and in this cold room. Cinderella. Say you think she'll come. Policeman. I--well, I... I... Gladys (imploringly). Say it, Mister! Delphine (begging). Monsieur! Monsieur! Marie. If it is that you love me, Monsieur! Policeman (in distress). I question of there was ever before a member of the Force in such a position. (Yielding.) I expect she'll come. (This settles it in the opinion of the children, but their eyes are too bright for such a late hour, and they are ordered to bed. Our Policeman replaces them in their boxes.) Cinderella. One--two--three... couchy! (They disappear.) Policeman (awkwardly and trying to hedge). Of course this is an out-of-the-way little street for a Godmother to find. Cinderella. Yes, I've thought of that. I'd best go and hang about outside; she would know me by my dress. Policeman (hastily). I wouldn't do that. It's a cold night. (He wanders about the room eyeing her sideways.) Balls is always late things. Cinderella. I'm none so sure. In wartime, you see, with the streets so dark and the King so kind, it would be just like him to begin early and close at ten instead of twelve. I must leave before twelve. If I don't, there's terrible disasters happens. Policeman (unable to follow this) The ball might be put off owing to the Prince of Wales being in France. Cinderella. He caught the last boat. I'll go out and watch. Policeman (desperate). Stay where you are, and--and I'll have a look for her. Cinderella. You're too kind. Policeman. Not at all. I must be stepping at any rate. If I can lay hands on her I'll march her here, though I have to put the handcuffs on her.

Gladys (looking up). I think I...

A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) on IMDb: Movies, TV, Celebs, and more A Kiss for Cinderella is a play by J. M. Barrie. It was produced on Broadway in 1916, and it starred Maude Adams. The play opened at the Empire Theatre on 25 Drama Cast overview, first billed only: Jeannie Carson Cinderella. Michael Aldridge . Connections. Version of A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) See more A kiss for Cinderella a comedy. by Barrie, J. M. (James Matthew), 1860-1937. Publication date [1920]. Publisher London Hodder and Last night, thanks to Angie, I finally got to see another one of my long time Most wanted Silents. Herbert Brennon's A KISS FOR CINDERELLA A kiss for Cinderella: a comedy [J. M. Barrie] on . FREE shipping on qualifying offers. This book was digitized and reprinted from the collections of A Kiss for Cinderella e un film muto del 1925 diretto da Herbert Brenon. Indice. [nascondi]. 1 Trama 2 Produzione 3 Distribuzione 4 Voci correlate Betty Bronson and Ivan F. Simpson in A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) is a silent fantasy taken from the stage play by James M. Barrie. The film stars Betty Bronson and Tom Moore and was made at - 103 min - Uploaded by Aristo P. Hanes Starring Betty Bronson. Much of the soundtrack had to be muted for copyright reasons. Overview. This is the famously winsome fantasy which was such a perennial favourite with Maude Adams and her audience. It concerns a modern Cinderella, & ARRIE THE UNIFORM EDITION OF THE PLAYS OF J. M. BARRIE A KISS FOR CINDERELLA THE PLAYS OF J. M. BARRIE Uniform with this Edition. Fantasy Betty Bronson and Ivan F. Simpson in A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) Betty Bronson and Esther Ralston in A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) A Kiss for Cinderella (1925) On the heels of director Herbert Brenon's successful 1924 adaptation of James M. Barrie's stage hit Peter Pan, Paramount Pictures quickly put into production A Kiss for Cinderella is a fantasy/romance set in London. The time is during WWI. Food and genuine human affection are scarce. In this bleak - 147 min - Uploaded by The 16th Cavern Subtitles available. A Kiss for Cinderella J. M. BARRIE (1860 - 1937) This play does have A Kiss for Cinderella. The play opened at the Empire Theater on December 25, 1916 and ran for 152 performances. Cinderella (Maude Adams playing the part